As educators it is our goal to see all students become life long readers. As an adult we hope you will find yourself picking up a good book and wishing you had someone to discuss it with. You may even find your self in a book club as an adult.

For this book you are encouraged to simply enjoy reading the book. You will be expected to prepare questions and comments about the book in preparation to meeting with your literature group. You will also be asked to summarize your conversation and reflect on how the conversation made you think differently. You will be assessed by your teacher on the quality of your discussion questions and reflections. You will be assessed by your adult leader on your participation and contributions during discussions. If you fail to come prepared to your discussion group, you will be asked to complete an alternative writing assignment.
